a healthy stomach lining is designed to tolerate levels of hydrochloric acid that are one million times higher than surrounding tissues.